The Life Field Polarizer Series 3

The Life Field Polarizer is a sophisticated oscillation antenna system. It absorbs, inverts and regroups an unlimited range of wavelengths. A harmonic energy is emitted. The polarizer protects and optimizes biological systems and all forms of life.

The great demand for ever stronger, more effective, simple and inexpensive interference suppression systems challenges me, as a producer, time and again to develop something new.

We know that for some people it is hard to comprehend that a simple system can be so effective. Provided the product is in impeccable condition, we give you a money back guarantee within one month after purchase. We have more than 15 years of experience which we are happy to share with you.

Today, people are flooded with harmful radiation. Some examples are: microwaves, television sets, transmitter masts, radio and telephone equipment, computers, the mains, tools and devices powered by alternating current. Especially the DECT telephone is a culprit. The polarizer neutralizes the radiation in food, water and other beverages. Put the device on a glass of water or other drinks and you will see that the taste improves.

In addition to normalizing the electromagnetic environment and reducing electro-smog, the energy field (also called aura by many) of biological systems is supplemented by eliminating impeding dissonant vibrations in their electric fields.

Various measuring systems show that the biological system of a human, animal, plant or food, when normalizing the electromagnetic environment, comes back into balance and changes. Some examples of these measuring systems are electro acupuncture, photons, Knapp method, Prognos, muscle testing, Vega and Voll.

By holding the polarizer in the area above the navel, also called the solar plexus, one can make a comparative measurement or test. Many people hold the polarizer on the solar plexus and usually feel a form of relaxation after some time. Especially children and animals react quickly to this.

The Life Field Polarizer is an insulated box that can easily be placed in the socket. It consists of various oscillating rings and contains harmonizing crystals. However, it does not need any energy in the socket. Its lifespan is unlimited and no installation or maintenance is required.

Warning:

There are also copied systems on the market with sometimes misdirected resonance rings and extremely heavy gemstones or crystals. Be careful with this, it can seriously affect your mood.

Life field polarizer:

The Polarizer is the result of many years of research by a number of scientists specializing in physics, electronics, chemistry, biology, and metallurgy. The most important person for the development of the Polarizer was the Russian scientist George Lakhovsky. He worked in Paris, Vienna and the United States. There he did a lot of research in the field of oscillation and resonance.

His fame is mainly due to the development of the 'Multiwave Oscillator,' which he did together with Nikola Tesla. The tests he carried out with cancer cell infected geraniums are very well known. The geraniums that developed tumors were treated with tuned oscillation (resonance) rings.

The result was that the tumor-loaded geraniums, which had an oscillation ring, simply continued to grow and later the tumors disappeared. The other geraniums that also had tumors, but no oscillation ring, died slowly. This optimized technique with oscillation rings is also in your Polarizer. Your power grid acts as a large antenna so the oscillation rings use your entire grid to transmit life energy.

Why is polarization essential for your health?

Many experts realise that decline in vitality is preceded by loss of health. Different voltages are responsible for the loss of our vitality. Because biological systems with their own frequencies function electrically, the artificial voltages of urban electromagnetic environments are very harmful. Vitality is slowed down and "symptoms of disease" arise.

By harmonizing the electromagnetic environment, the Life Field Polarizer restores cohesion in the body's electric fields. In this way, all the information that is essential for the optimal functioning of the body becomes available.

Polarization also restores, amplifies and revitalizes normal frequencies for cellular vibrations. With renewed cohesion and vitality, assuming that all natural laws are observed, the field of life can produce the bioelectrical blueprint of life without symptoms of disturbance.

How can the Life Field Polarizer be used optimally?

1. In order to polarize the electrical systems at home and on the premises, all you have to do is plug the Polarizer into a wall socket. The entire wiring system will then become a powerful antenna. Harmonious vibrations will be transmitted over the entire plot.

The electrical fields of all the devices connected to the wiring system will be in harmony with the biological life systems. Only one Polarizer is needed for each electronic wiring system, with some exceptions.

2. When the domestic electrical wiring system is earthed to the water mains, as required in many countries, the electrical patterns of the substances in the water will also be corrected. The water will become invigorating instead of dissipating energy and the benefits are greater than any commercially distilled water we have tested.

3. To polarize a car, plane, boat, bus or similar, a suitable Polarizer must be placed on a metal base, such as the floorboard of the car or the 12 Volts connection. The Polarizer's energy generally passes right through the carpet on top of it. It will immediately penetrate the electrical system and harmful radiation will dominate.

4. Place the Polarizer on painful body parts (unplug it), which often reveal underlying blockages of life force. With a few minutes a day, you can free your life field from electrical disturbances and blockages in the energy flow, which can cause pain.

Be careful with the Life Field Polarizer. Don't drop it! If it does happen accidentally, and it rattles when you shake it, send it to Meditech Europe.

Polarity-circuit switching test:

Due to a variety of unnatural voltages, most people who have been tested in urban areas have a (wrong) polarity reversal. To test for polarity reversal: Have the person stretch the left arm as described above.

Let him put his right palm on his head and test. The person should be strong when the right palm is on his head and weaker when the back of the right hand is on his head. You will probably find that most people are weak when they should be strong and strong when they should be weak. The polarity is then reversed or reversed and actually their system works without the right energy and information.

To solve this, take the Polarizer and hold it over the person's thymus gland or solar plexus. Then test again, with the polarizer unplugged. The results indicate that there is an immediate correction of the energy level. If the Polarizer is held in this position for a while, the person will generally test "normal" after it is removed. The result is, of course, temporary, unless the person takes steps to protect themselves by polarising themselves and their electromagnetic environment.

Testing with kinesiology:

A muscle reflex test is a convincing way to test the benefits of your Polarizer.

You can use the deltoid muscle at the top of the shoulder to do such a test. To do this, you need to press just hard enough to test the rebound and mobility in the arm. So don't press so hard that the muscle gets tired. You only test to the point where the shoulder muscle becomes weak. To test someone:

1. Leave the person standing upright with the left arm relaxed along the side and the right arm stretched forward. The elbow should be straight and closed in that position.
2. Stand with your face to the side next to the person and place your left hand on the person's right shoulder to support them. Then place your right hand on the outstretched arm, just above the wrist joint.
3. Tell the person that you are going to try to push the arm down, while the person has to stop it with all his or her strength.
4. Now apply quick and firm pressure to the arm. The idea is to push the arm down just hard enough to find the point where the deltoid muscle becomes weak and the arm can no longer stay in position without using the rest of the body.
5. Now take a hairdryer, shaver or other appliance that can be held in your hand and plug it in.
6. Have the person turn the device on and test the arm again. The arm will be weaker than before. There will be almost no force in it.
7. Turn off the device and test the arm again. The arm will be stronger than with the power on.
